Analyst Briefing
26 February 2016

6 months to December 2015: Highlights

- Dec-15 net inflows were up 59% compared to Dec-14 (yoy) and up $615m since 30 Jun. (For clarity, A$89mn was PTM's capital co-invested.)
- Closing Dec-15 AUM up 4% on Dec-14 but flat compared to Jun-15 with market declines mostly offsetting net inflows
- New Listed Investment Company, PAI, debuted in September – funds raised $263m net
- New Irish UCITS fund range, Platinum World Portfolios, was seeded in November - FuM US$25m over three funds (World, Asia, Japan)
- Profit After Tax up 19% on Dec-14 and 6% on the previous half since 30 Jun
- Interim dividend of 16 cps

Our services are highly differentiated...

Funds with large allocations to the US market are participating in an increasingly crowded trade.

Investment Performance

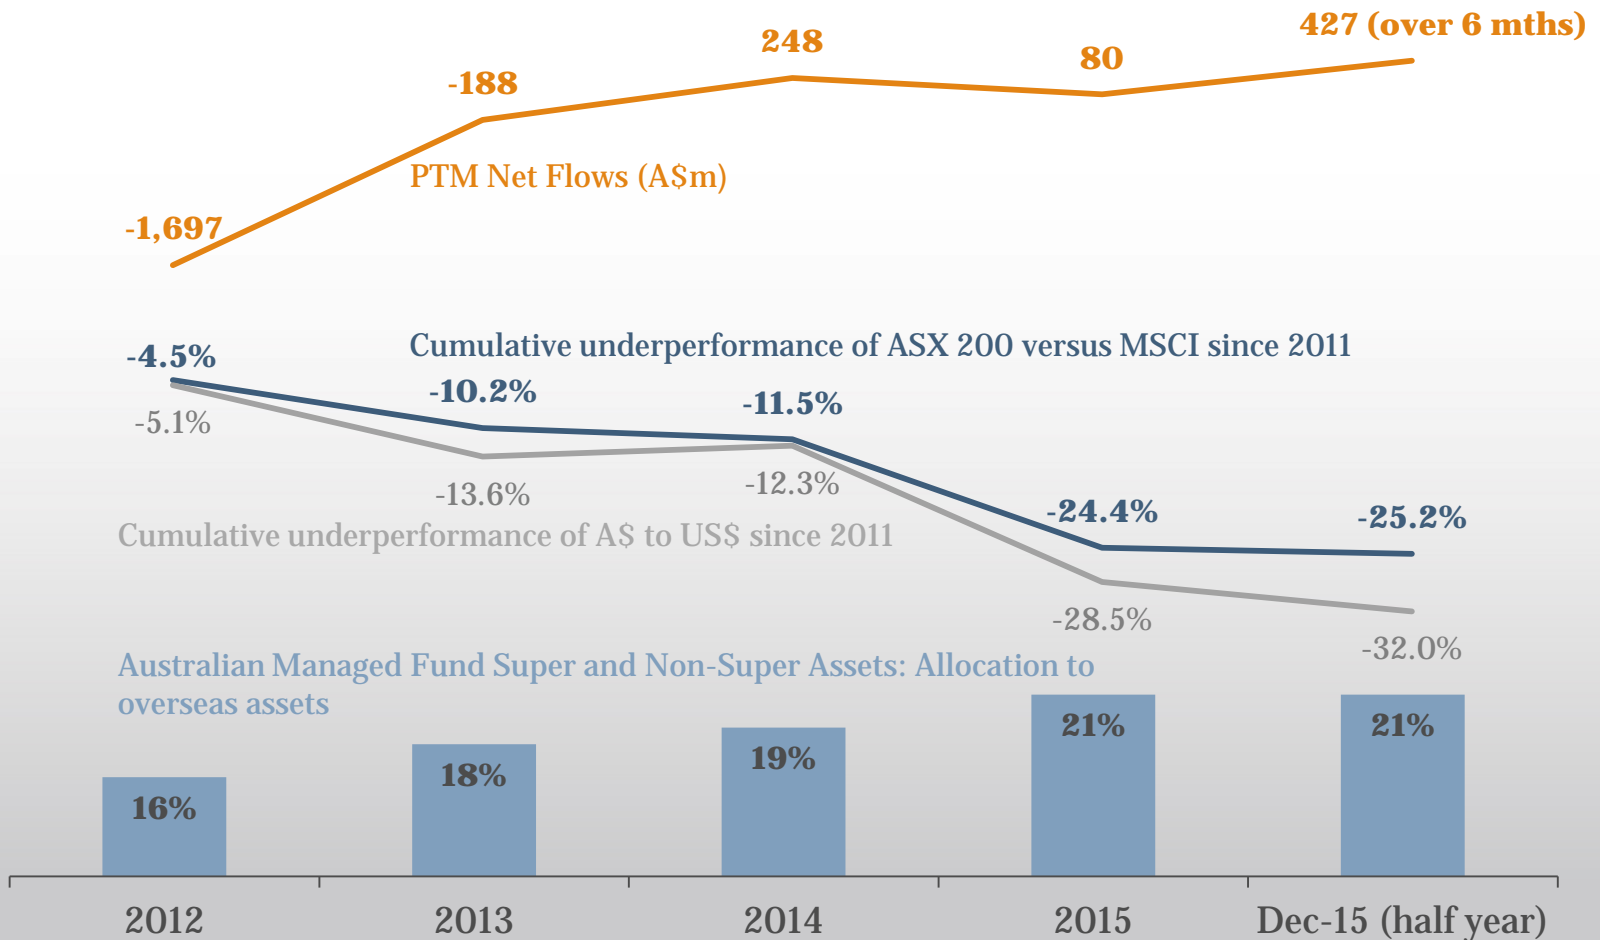

(to 31 Dec 2015)

Long-term performance remains compelling. Absolute return focus and downside protection has detracted from some short-term performance during recent strong investment markets.

The trend to invest more offshore gathers pace.

The falling A$ and the related slide in the ASX has significantly increased the attractiveness of international equities

...but demographic shifts are changing the focus of our clients...

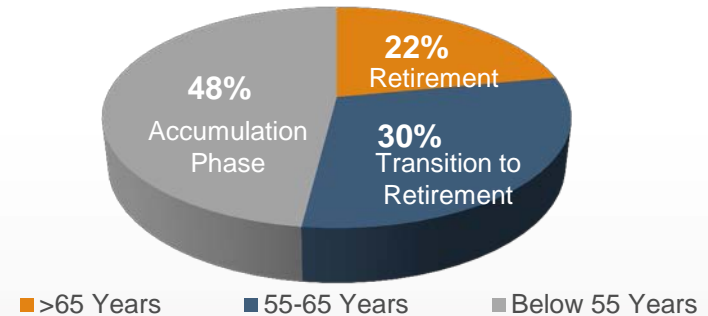

The baby boomers are now reaching retirement age

Less than half of all superannuation assets are now in the accumulation phase

Does increasing longevity risk and a shortage of yield encourage chronically under-funded clients to change their risk preference (equities)...

... but with client demand shifting away from relative returns towards absolute returns and addressing draw-down risk.

...which Platinum is also well-positioned for

Significant¹ shift from the accumulation to de-accumulation phase over the next decade as boomers retire. Underfunded retirees will need to retain exposure to equities but their focus should shift from relative returns towards absolute returns and downside protection.

...second way to explore this problem

Significant¹ shift from the accumulation to de-accumulation phase over the next decade as boomers retire. Underfunded retirees will need to retain exposure to equities but their focus should shift from relative returns towards absolute returns and downside protection.

Assumptions:

Investor (aged 65) retires in 2015 with $500,000 and then withdraws $4,500 per month ($54,000 per annum).

Outcomes:

At a 10% annual return, the investment has reduced to $116,000.

1. For example, recent Rainmaker Research estimated that Australia's Post Retirement AuM will double from $500b in 2014 to over $1tr by 2021

What is a realistic return from equities over the next 20 yrs?

Compounding dividends make up the bulk of historic equity returns, 1970-2015

Progress being made across key initiatives

1. Building the local brand with an adviser and direct-to-consumer focus

Segmentation – controllers 20%; information seekers 40%; little or no interest 40%

- 35K PT Fund reports mailed out to investors and advisers each quarter
- expanding The Journal section of our website
- national adviser and investor road shows
- regular meetings with advisers, presentations to their clients, analyst involvement
- marketing strategies continue
- continued enhancements to the functionality of our website

2. Expanding our SMSF-focused, listed product range

- Our new LIC, Platinum Asia Investments Limited (PAI) launched September 2015, raised A$263m net

3. Extending our brand into offshore markets

- 3 European UCIT's Funds launched in Ireland during November 2015, seed funding US$25m

4. Professional investor development continuing – but long lead times

5. Investing in talent – new members joining investment specialists

Outlook

1. Small teams improved orientation; specialist approach generating large idea base.
2. Competitive debasement of currencies – reduces attraction of holding cash.
3. A$ weakness and more foreign equity exposure probable.
4. Remain index agnostic in a world of shifting goal posts.
