MARKET UPDATE AND COMMENTARY

- The portfolio returned 4.8% in July and 12.2% over the year.
- The return was driven by strong contributions from consumer discretionary, information technology and industrials.
- We are focused on finding businesses that have strong long-term growth prospects with attractive valuations.

Market Commentary

All eyes were on China's Politburo meeting in July

The Politburo statement from the 24 July meeting acknowledged China's economy was facing new difficulties and challenges, in particular, lacklustre domestic demand and a complex external environment. Members urged the need for proactive fiscal policy and prudent monetary policy (source: Xinhua). Three US cabinet officials visited China during July to calm geopolitical tensions, and President Xi made comments calling for greater international cooperation in terms of trade and investment. The market took this announcement positively, with some economists describing the tone as more dovish than expected (source: Deutsche Bank). Analysts agreed that more stimulus measures seem likely and will be enough to ensure that the government's growth target of "at least 5%" will be achieved (source: FactSet). Chinese stocks recorded their best month since January on rising expectations that stimulus would be forthcoming (source: Bloomberg).

Support for the Chinese property market was the standout

The standout development cited was the change in language on real estate policy, dropping the mantra that "housing is for living, not for speculation". Chinese property stocks rebounded in late July on the news that authorities are looking to ease housing curbs and stimulate private consumption, with officials in top-tier cities including Beijing, Shenzhen and Guangzhou mulling easing home-buying restrictions in these cities to drive a recovery in property markets (source: SCMP). The portfolio has about ~7% exposure to Chinese real estate companies.

Platinum is a contrarian investor; our hunting ground is to look for out-of-favour stocks where the market has overreacted to temporary setbacks or structural change. Even world-class companies with strong long-term growth prospects at attractive valuations that happen to be situated in China still seem to be out of favour with investors, and this is therefore an area where we think the best opportunities are to generate alpha for the long term.

Elsewhere in Asia

India continues to be the flavour for the month for investors. We think India is a great story both in terms of demographics and macroeconomic indicators, however, it is a well-known story, and we believe it is already reflected in the price. The BSE500 Index is trading on 20x 12-month forward price-to-earnings (PE), the most expensive market in the G20, and reflects the market's expectations of 21% earnings per share (EPS) growth for the next 12 months. This is compared to China (Shanghai A Share Index), which is trading on 9.5x 12-month forward PE with the market expecting EPS growth of 24% (source: FactSet and Credit Suisse).

Performance Analysis*

The portfolio returned 4.8% for the month. Top contributors to July's performance included Vietnamese fund manager Vietnam Enterprise Investments, Chinese insurance company Ping An Insurance and Chinese tech company Alibaba. Detractors included Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing and Chinese technology company TI Cloud.

Valuation

The portfolio's aggregate valuation metrics are attractive in both an absolute sense and relative to the market, with a 4% higher earnings yield (see table below). We continue to deploy Platinum's contrarian investment process, which focuses on finding businesses that have better long-term growth prospects but are oversold or out of favour due to temporary setbacks and therefore have attractive valuations.

Metric	Platinum Asia Investments Limited	MSCI AC Asia Ex Japan Index (A$)
NTM Earnings Yield	7.9% (Price-to-Earnings ratio of 12.6x)	7.6% (Price-to-Earnings ratio of 13.1x)
NTM Dividend Yield	2.6%	3.0%
NTM Enterprise Value-to-Sales	1.5x	1.1x
LTM Price-to-Book Ratio	1.6x	1.6x

The valuations in the table have been calculated by Platinum and for the portfolio refer to the long portion of the portfolio, exclude negative net earnings and use FactSet consensus earnings. MSCI data is sourced from Rimes, FactSet and Platinum. As at 31 July 2023. NTM = next twelve months. LTM = last twelve months.
