Chairperson's Letter

Fellow Shareholder,

The Board and I are appreciative of the supportive and loyal shareholder base we have. On behalf of the Directors, I am pleased to offer you as an Eligible Shareholder a Bonus Option for every 4 Shares you hold in the Company on the Record Date for nil consideration. The Bonus Options are expected to be quoted on the ASX under the code PAIO.

The Company is undertaking the Offer as part of the capital management initiatives announced to the ASX on 25 October 2022.

The Board has carefully considered its approach in relation to the setting of the Bonus Option exercise price. Since its incorporation in 2015, the Company has outperformed the MSCI AC Asia ex-Japan Net Index ($A) over 1, 3 and 5 years during a period of considerable volatility, including COVID, and, in particular, China closing its borders until recently. Despite a challenging global environment, the Company has delivered investment returns of 11.9% and 6.1% for the 6 months and 12 months to 31 March 2023, respectively (measured by the Company's pre-tax NTA Backing per Share)¹.

The Company is undertaking this Offer to allow Eligible Shareholders time to assess future market developments and consider whether or not they wish to add to their investment in the Company at a Bonus Option exercise price of $0.90 being the pre-tax NTA Backing per Share at 31 March 2023, less 12.5%, rounded to the nearest half cent. This is above the closing price of the Company's Shares on 31 March 2023.

The Board considers the method used for determining the exercise price appropriately blends the twin objectives of reflecting market circumstances since the time of the announcement whilst providing Eligible Shareholders with an additional opportunity to participate in any upturn in the markets during the Bonus Option exercise period.

The Board further considers the issue of pro-rata Bonus Options to be the most equitable way to potentially grow the assets of the Company with the following possible benefits to Shareholders:

- Growing the assets of the Company can reduce the fixed cost ratio for Shareholders and increase liquidity in the Shares,
- There is no brokerage payable on the exercise of the Bonus Options, unlike buying Shares on market,
- Bonus Options are issued at no direct cost to the Bonus Option holder and may potentially be sold on-market,
- Bonus Option holders will have flexibility to exercise, sell or hold their Bonus Options in various combinations until they expire.

Eligible Shareholders do not need to take any action in order to receive the Bonus Options. No application money is payable for the grant of the Bonus Options.

Each Bonus Option is exercisable at $0.90 at any time prior to 5pm (Sydney time) on 28 March 2024 and gives the Bonus Option holder the right to acquire one Share. The Company will generally issue Shares on the 15th day of each calendar month, following the exercise of the Bonus Options. Any capital raised through the exercise of the Bonus Options will be used to increase the size of the Company's Portfolio and will be invested in line with its investment strategy and objectives.

¹ Source: Platinum. Returns are measured by the Company's pre-tax NTA Backing per Share, have been calculated after the deduction of fees and expenses, adjusted for taxes paid and any capital flows and assume the reinvestment of dividends. 1, 3 and 5 year returns refer to annualised returns to 31 March 2023. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future returns.

It is important that Eligible Shareholders read this Prospectus in its entirety and seek professional advice where necessary. An investment in the Company, like all equity investments, should be carefully considered. Please see section 5 of this Prospectus for details of the key risks of investing in the Company.

On behalf of the Board, I look forward to your continued support and on updating you on the Company's progress.

Yours faithfully

3. Purpose and Effect of the Offer on the Company

3.1 Purpose of the Offer

The Company is undertaking the Offer as part of the capital management initiatives announced to the ASX on 25 October 2022.

The Board has carefully considered its approach in relation to the setting of the Bonus Option exercise price. Since its incorporation in 2015, the Company has outperformed the MSCI AC Asia ex-Japan Net Index ($A) over 1, 3 and 5 years during a period of considerable volatility, including COVID, and, in particular, China closing its borders until recently. Despite a challenging global environment, the Company has delivered investment returns of 11.9% and 6.1% for the 6 months and 12 months to 31 March 2023, respectively (measured by the Company's pre-tax NTA Backing per Share)³.

The Company is undertaking this Offer to allow Eligible Shareholders time to assess future market developments and consider whether or not they wish to add to their investment in the Company at a Bonus Option exercise price of $0.90 being the pre-tax NTA Backing per Share at 31 March 2023, less 12.5%, rounded to the nearest half cent. This is above the closing price of the Company's Shares on 31 March 2023.

The Board considers the method used for determining the Bonus Option Exercise Price appropriately blends the twin objectives of reflecting market circumstances since the time of the announcement whilst providing Eligible Shareholders with an additional opportunity to participate in any upturn in the markets during the Bonus Option exercise period.

The Board further considers that the Offer provides the potential for enhanced liquidity for Shareholders. As the Company's size increases, it is expected the liquidity in the Shares of the Company traded on the ASX should also increase and may generate further interest from new investors, brokers, analysts and financial advisers. Greater scale may also benefit Shareholders by reducing the fixed expense base of the Company on a per Share basis.

No funds will be raised through the issue of the Bonus Options pursuant to this Prospectus. However, if all Bonus Options⁴ are exercised, the Company will receive approximately $83,217,551.

3.2 Effect on capital structure

The effect of the Offer on the Company's issued capital as at the date of this Prospectus is as shown in the following table.

	As at the date of this Prospectus	On completion of the issue of all Bonus Options ⁴	On exercise of all Bonus Options
Shares on issue	369,855,784	369,855,784	462,319,730
Bonus Options on issue	Nil	92,463,946	Nil
Fully diluted capital	369,855,784	462,319,730	462,319,730

³ Source: Platinum. Returns are measured by the Company's pre-tax NTA Backing per Share, have been calculated after the deduction of fees and expenses, adjusted for taxes paid and any capital flows and assume the reinvestment of dividends. 1, 3 and 5 year returns refer to annualised returns to 31 March 2023. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future returns.

⁴ Subject to rounding and based on the number of Shares on issue on the date of this Prospectus and assuming all Shares are held by Eligible Shareholders.

3.3 Effect on balance sheet

The Bonus Options to be issued pursuant to this Prospectus will be issued for no consideration. With the exception of the expenses associated with the Offer, there will be no effect on the Company's balance sheet unless Bonus Options are exercised.

If all Bonus Options are exercised prior to the Bonus Option Expiry Date⁵, the cash reserves of the Company would increase by approximately $83,217,551.

3.4 Effect on control of the Company

Given that Bonus Options do not convey ownership in the Company unless exercised, the Offer will have no material effect on the ownership of the Company on the issue of the Bonus Options. If Bonus Option holders choose to exercise their Bonus Options, the total number of Shares on issue will increase. This would mean that the interest (including dividend entitlements and entitlements to any available franking credits) in the Company of Eligible Shareholders who do not exercise their Bonus Options and non-Eligible Shareholders, will be diluted. As a result, Eligible Shareholders who do not exercise all of their Bonus Options, Eligible Shareholders who sell some or all of their Bonus Options, and non-Eligible Shareholders may hold a lesser percentage of the total Shares on issue in the Company and may receive a lesser proportion of the Company's future total dividend payments.

3.5 Use of funds

No funds will be raised through the issue of the Bonus Options pursuant to this Prospectus. However, if all Bonus Options⁵ are exercised, the Company will receive approximately $83,217,551.

Any funds received by the Company as a result of the exercise of any Bonus Options will be used to increase the size of the Company's Portfolio and will be invested in line with its investment strategy and objectives.

⁵ Subject to rounding and based on the number of Shares on issue on the date of this Prospectus and assuming all Shares are held by Eligible Shareholders.

There is no brokerage payable when Bonus Options are exercised.
Issue of Shares	During the Bonus Option exercise period, subject to the receipt of a Bonus Option Exercise Notice and payment of the Bonus Option Exercise Price in cleared funds by 5:00pm (Sydney time) on the 13th day of a calendar month (or on the prior Business Day, if the 13th day is not a Business Day), the Company must issue the Bonus Option holder the number of Shares specified in the Bonus Option Exercise Notice on the 15th day of that calendar month (or on the next Business Day, if the 15th day is not a Business Day). During the Bonus Option exercise period, the Board may determine in its sole discretion (and as notified in advance to Shareholders) additional Business Days for the issue of Shares in response to the exercise of the Bonus Options by Bonus Option holders.

Voting Rights	The Bonus Options do not confer on the holder a right to receive notices of general meetings (except as may be required by law), nor any right to attend, speak at or vote at general meetings of the Company.
Rights issue adjustment	If between the date of issue and the date of exercise of a Bonus Option the Company makes one or more rights issues (being a pro-rata issue of Shares in the capital of the Company that is not a bonus issue), the Bonus Option Exercise Price of Bonus Options on issue will be reduced in respect of each rights issue according to the following formula: $NP = OP - \frac{E [P - (S + D)]}{(N + 1)}$ Where: NP = the new Bonus Option exercise price; OP = the old Bonus Option Exercise Price;

	E = the number of Shares into which one Bonus Option is exercisable; P = the volume weighted average price of trading in the Shares on the ASX market and the Cboe market over that period, excluding block trades, large portfolio trades, permitted trades during the pre-trading hours period, permitted trades during the post-trading hours period, out of hours trades and exchange traded option exercises, calculated over the 5 trading days ending on the day before the ex-rights date or ex-entitlements date; S = the subscription price for Shares to be issued under the pro rata issue; D = the amount of any dividend or distribution due but not yet paid on the existing Shares (except those securities to be issued under the pro rata issue); N = the number of existing Shares with rights or entitlements that must be held to receive a right to one new security under the pro rata issue. No change will be made to the number of Shares to which the Bonus Option holder is entitled upon exercise of the Bonus Option as a result of the rights issue adjustment above.
Bonus issue adjustment	In the event of a bonus issue of securities to Shareholders after the date of issue of the Bonus Options, the number of Shares over which a Bonus Option is exercisable may be increased by the number of Shares which the holder of the Bonus Option would have received if the Bonus Option had been exercised before the record date for the bonus issue in accordance with the ASX Listing Rules. No change will be made to the Bonus Option Exercise Price.
Reorganisations of capital	The rights of a Bonus Option holder will be changed to the extent necessary to comply with the ASX Listing Rules applying to a reorganisation of capital at the time of the reorganisation.
No changes	There is no right to a change in the Bonus Option Exercise Price or to the number of Shares over which the Bonus Options are exercisable in the event of a new issue of capital (other than a bonus issue or a pro-rata issue) during the tenure of the Bonus Options.
ASX Quotation of Bonus Options	The Company has applied to ASX for the Bonus Options to be quoted on ASX. If ASX does not give permission for quotation of the Bonus Options within three (3) months after the date of the Original Prospectus (or any later date permitted by law), none of the Bonus Options will be issued and if any have been issued, the issue will be void, unless ASIC grants an exemption permitting the issue. It is expected that quotation of the Bonus Options will initially be on a deferred settlement basis.
ASX Listing	The Company must make an application for quotation of Shares issued on exercise of the Bonus Options on ASX in accordance with the ASX Listing Rules.
Amendments	These terms and conditions of Bonus Options may be amended as necessary by the Company, subject to compliance with the ASX Listing Rules, and provided that the economic and other rights of the Bonus

- (e) subject to the Corporations Act and the Listing Rules, the Shares are fully transferable.

The rights attaching to the Shares may be varied with the approval of Shareholders at a general meeting by special resolution.

5. Risk Factors

5.1 Introduction

This section describes some of the risks associated with exercising the Bonus Options offered under this Prospectus. The Bonus Options offered under this Prospectus are considered speculative because of the inherent risks associated with a listed investment company like the Company. In addition, there are risks inherent in investing in the share market in general.

The Directors have considered and identified in this section of the Prospectus the critical areas of risk associated with investing in Shares through the exercise of the Bonus Options. The risks identified by the Directors are not exhaustive.

Neither the Company nor any of its Directors nor any other party associated with the preparation of this Prospectus guarantees that any specific objectives of the Company will be achieved or that any particular performance of the Company or of its Shares or Bonus Options will be achieved.

You should carefully consider the risks described below and all of the other information set out in this Prospectus before deciding to exercise any Bonus Options. If you do not fully understand this Prospectus or are in doubt as to how to deal with it, you should seek professional advice from your accountant, financial adviser, stockbroker, lawyer or other professional adviser.

5.2 Risks specific to the Bonus Options

(a) Exercise price of Bonus Options

No guarantee can be given that the Share price will be greater than the exercise price of the Bonus Options during the period up to expiry of the Bonus Options. Accordingly, there is a risk that the Bonus Options will be out of the money during the Bonus Option exercise period, which may affect the value of the Bonus Options.

(b) Value of securities and share market conditions

The market price of the Company's securities may be subject to varied and unpredictable influences on the market for equities in general. Market conditions may affect the value of the Company's securities regardless of the Company's performance.

(c) Dilution

If Bonus Option holders choose to exercise their Bonus Options, the total number of Shares on issue will increase. This would mean that the interest (including dividend entitlements and entitlements to any available franking credits) in the Company of Eligible Shareholders who do not exercise their Bonus Options or of non-Eligible Shareholders, will be diluted.

(d) Lapse

The Bonus Options will lapse if they are not exercised by the end of the Bonus Option Expiry Date.

(e) Taxation consequences

The exercise of a Bonus Option may have taxation consequences, depending on your particular circumstances. You should seek your own taxation advice before exercising a Bonus Option.

5.3 Risks specific to the Company

(a) Portfolio asset risk and volatility risk

A core part of the Company's investment strategy is to invest in equity and equity related securities of listed companies. Investments in such securities can be subject to a high level of volatility, that is, there can be significant fluctuation in the price of the securities. The value and price of the securities held in the Portfolio may be affected by the quality of the relevant entity's management, its financial condition and operations, and the general health of the sector it operates in.

(b) Listed company risk

The market price of the Securities of the Company may not correlate exactly to the underlying value of the Portfolio as reflected in its NTA Backing per Share. The Securities may trade on ASX at a price that is above (i.e. a premium) or below (i.e. a discount) the Company's NTA Backing per Share over short or long periods of time (as demonstrated by the trading history of the Company). Notwithstanding the above, the share price of listed companies, including the Company, is affected by a diverse range of non-company specific factors which are outside the Company's control, such as the general state of the domestic or global economy, the general volatility of the Australian share market and general market sentiments.

(c) Liquidity risk

The absence of an established market or a shortage of buyers for an investment can result in a loss if the holder of the investment needs to sell it within a particular timeframe. The ability of a Security holder in the Company to sell their Shares or Bonus Options on ASX will be dependent on the turnover or liquidity of those Securities at the time of sale, which is a function of a wide variety of factors including the size of the Company and the intentions of all current and possible investors in the Company at that time. Therefore, Security holders may not be able to realise their investments in the Company by selling their Securities at the time and in the volumes or at the price they desire.

(d) Manager risk

The Company's success is dependent upon the Manager's ability to generate positive absolute investment returns (measured by the Company's pre-tax NTA Backing per Share). To achieve this outcome, the Manager must construct and maintain a Portfolio that complies with the Company's investment objective, strategies, policies, guidelines and permitted investments. The ability of the Manager to continue to manage the Portfolio may be compromised by such events as the loss of its AFSL or its non-compliance with conditions under its AFSL or the Corporations Act. If the Manager ceases to manage the Portfolio or the Management Agreement is terminated, the Company will need to identify and engage a suitably qualified and experienced investment manager to implement the Company's investment strategy. Conversely, regardless of the Manager's performance, the Company cannot terminate the Management Agreement during the initial 10 year term (other than for cause) and, during the 10 year additional term following the end of the initial term, can only terminate the Management Agreement with Shareholders' approval. This may be difficult to achieve as the Manager is a substantial Shareholder. Moreover, whilst the Manager has in place an investment team with a proven track record of success for investing in the Asian Region ex Japan (and globally), its ability to generate future earnings for the Portfolio is dependent on its ability to attract, train, retain and motivate highly skilled and qualified employees, including the Portfolio Manager.

(e) Material service provider risk:

The Company engages a number of service providers, including but not limited to the Manager, to perform key functions on its behalf. There is a risk that these service providers may not properly perform their obligations and duties under their contracts with the Company, or that circumstances beyond the reasonable control of a service provider may occur, such as failure of technology or infrastructure (including but not limited to a cyber event), or natural disasters.

(f) Investment strategy risk

The Company's performance depends on the expertise and investment decisions of the Manager. The Manager's opinion about the intrinsic value of a company or security may be incorrect, the Company's investment objective may not be achieved and the market may continue to undervalue the securities held by the Company. Negative investment performance could adversely affect the Company's NAV, profits, performance, Share price and ability to pay dividends. Also, due to the concentration of investments in the Asian Region ex Japan, the Portfolio may not be as geographically diversified as the portfolio of certain other investment vehicles.

(g) Foreign issuer and emerging market risk

Due to the Company's investment objective and strategies, the Portfolio consists primarily of listed securities of companies in the Asian Region ex Japan. Investments in foreign companies may be negatively impacted by sovereign, political, economic or market instability, global geo-political events and hostilities including acts of terrorism, reduced corporate governance standards, reduced levels of corporate disclosure and transparency, risks of unfavourable government actions such as expropriation and nationalisation and environmental, social and governance risks. Some countries may also have legal systems, taxation regimes, auditing and accounting standards that are substantially different to those of Australia. These risks may be higher when investing in emerging markets. For example, investors have often regarded the Asian Region ex Japan as having a higher sovereign and systemic risk profile than more developed economies, because of a belief that the institutions for oversight in Asia are less developed.

(h) Market liquidity risk

The Manager may not be able to purchase or sell certain securities at the time and in the volume or at the price desired due to an absence of an established market or a shortage of buyers or sellers (as the case may be) for those securities. This risk may be more significant in some of the smaller emerging markets that the Company invests in.

(i) Currency risk

Investing in assets denominated in a currency other than Australian dollars, being the Company's base currency, may cause losses resulting from exchange rate fluctuations, which can change the value of the Portfolio's investments measured in Australian dollars. For example, if an equity investment is denominated in a foreign currency and that currency depreciates in value against the Australian dollar, the value of that investment may depreciate when translated into Australian dollars and the Portfolio may suffer a loss as a result, notwithstanding that the underlying equity has appreciated in value in its currency of denomination.

(j) Derivative risk

Investments in derivatives may cause losses associated with changes in market conditions, such as fluctuation in interest rates, equity prices or exchange rates. Changes in the value of a derivative may not correlate exactly with the underlying asset. Derivative transactions may be highly volatile and can create investment leverage, which could cause the Portfolio to lose more than the amount of assets initially contributed to the transaction, i.e. losses can be magnified where a greater exposure is created through a derivative position than is backed by the assets of the Portfolio.

Further, as OTC derivatives are customised instruments, such transactions may expose the Portfolio to a liquidity risk where it may be unable to liquidate a derivative contract at a fair market price within its desired timeframe. Moreover, trading in OTC derivatives generally requires the lodgement of collateral (also known as “credit support”), such as a margin or guarantee with the counterparty. The Company adopts the policy that derivative positions will typically be collateralised with cash. The Manager, however, is empowered under the Management Agreement to charge or otherwise encumber other assets in the Portfolio to secure derivative positions held in accordance with the Company’s investment policies and guidelines. Financial transactions that are conducted OTC generally carry greater counterparty risk than securities traded on a recognised exchange where the other party to the transaction is the exchange’s clearing house. Counterparties are typically engaged through standard market contracts such as ISDA Master Agreements.

(k) Leverage risk

The use of leverage may magnify the gains and losses achieved in the Portfolio. While the Company may borrow up to 10% of its NAV (at the time of borrowing) and the Board may at its discretion increase that limit after giving notice to ASX, borrowing does not form part of the investment policy of the Company (except to the extent short-term overdrafts arise from trade settlement delays) and is not part of the Manager’s investment strategy.

The Company’s policies in respect of the use of derivatives allow the Company to have an effective exposure⁶ from its derivative positions of up to 100% of its NAV and a gross effective exposure⁶ from its long stock positions and derivative positions together of up to 150% of its NAV. This means that, if the Company has a 100% NAV exposure to derivative positions, it is theoretically possible that the Company would lose its entire NAV from losses on its derivative positions.

Furthermore, the maximum leverage permitted in the Company is 150% of its NAV, that is, for every $1.00 invested, the gross invested position of the Portfolio, taking into account all securities and derivatives held, is limited to $1.50. This limitation includes all positions in the Portfolio and does not allow for the netting of any offsetting positions. However, while the Company may be leveraged up to 150% of its NAV, Shareholders would not have an exposure in excess of 100% of their investments in the Securities. In addition, in practice, the Company’s net effective exposure excluding cash will rarely exceed 100% of its NAV.

(l) Short selling risk

Short selling can be seen as a form of leverage and may magnify the gains and losses achieved in the Portfolio. Short selling can be used to take opportunities to increase returns and to manage certain risk exposures in the Portfolio. However, short selling may also have a significantly increased adverse impact on the Company's returns. Losses resulting from a short position may exceed the amount initially invested.

(m) Counterparty risk

A loss may occur if the other party to a contract, such as a derivatives counterparty or a custodian, defaults on its obligations under the contract. The performance of the Portfolio relies on the successful performance of the Company's contracts with external parties. The Company could be exposed to the risk of loss if a counterparty does not meet its obligations, including due to insolvency, financial distress or a dispute over the terms of the contract. In the case of a counterparty default, the Portfolio may also be exposed to adverse market movements while it sources replacement transactions.

(n) Dividend risk

The Company's ability to pay franked dividends is contingent on it making taxable profits and the availability of franking credits. The Manager may make investment decisions which may result in the Portfolio's taxable profits being inadequate for the Company to pay franked dividends to Shareholders. No guarantee can be given concerning the future earnings of the Company, the earnings and capital appreciation of the Portfolio or the return of your investment.

(o) Potential conflicts of interest

In addition to the Company, the Manager also acts as the investment manager to other funds and investment vehicles and other mandates. It is possible therefore that the Manager may, in the course of its business, have potential conflicts of interest which may not be managed effectively and may be detrimental to the Company and its securityholders. The Manager has implemented dealing and trade allocation policies to seek to manage such risk, however, no guarantee can be given that the policies will be effective. The Manager is a substantial Shareholder of the Company and the Manager's officers and employees may hold Shares or have relevant interests in the Company.

(p) Performance fee incentive risk

The risk of a conflict of interest could potentially increase if traders or analysts employed by the Manager are compensated in respect of performance of their portfolios which may be seen as incentives to take higher investment risks. Whilst the Manager employs, amongst other things, a peer scrutiny process and direct oversight by the Portfolio Manager, no guarantee can be given that the processes will be effective.

5.4 General risks

The Company is also subject to general risk factors outside the control of the Company which may have a significant impact on the future performance of the Company. It is not possible to identify every general risk associated with investing in the Company, however, the following list sets out the significant general risks associated with investing in the Company. There may be other risks associated with investing in the Company.

(a) General market risk

Security prices may decline over short or extended periods due to general market conditions, including but not limited to, inflation, foreign currency fluctuations and interest rates, which may impact adversely on the value of the Portfolio and the price of the Company's Securities. Any protracted slowdown in economic conditions or adverse changes in factors such as unemployment rates, GDP and government policy, which are outside the control of the Company and the Manager, may materially impact on the Company and its performance.

(b) Interest rate risk

Changes in interest rates may have an impact, either directly or indirectly, on the investment returns of the Portfolio.

(c) Legal, regulatory and tax risk

Changes in legislation and other rules and regulations in any of the markets the Company invests in, including but not limited to those dealing with taxation, accounting and investment, may adversely impact the Company, the Portfolio or your investment in the Company.

(d) Global pandemic risk

Health pandemics could significantly affect the industries that the Company invests in as well as the normal operations of financial markets and the operation of custodians and counterparties.

The impact of COVID-19 in the countries and markets in which the Company invests on behalf of its clients remain susceptible to economic recessions or downturns which could cause a material contraction in the markets and sectors in which the Company invests. These economic disruptions could have a material adverse impact on the Company's Portfolio, and its financial position and performance, as well as affect the price of the Company's Shares and the Bonus Options.

COVID-19 has resulted in significant market falls and volatility including in the prices of securities trading on ASX and on other foreign securities exchanges. Many of the risks highlighted in this section 5 are likely to be heightened due to the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic. There is continued uncertainty as to the further impact of COVID-19 including in relation to governmental action, potential taxation changes, work stoppages, lockdown, quarantines, travel restrictions, vaccine efficacy and availability and the impact on the global economy and share markets.

6.1 Continuous disclosure obligations

This is a prospectus for the offer of options to acquire continuously quoted securities (as defined in the Corporations Act) of the Company and is issued pursuant to section 713 of the Corporations Act as a 'transaction specific prospectus'. Accordingly, this Prospectus does not contain the same level of disclosure as an initial public offering prospectus. Investors should therefore have regard to the other publicly available information in relation to the Company before deciding whether or not to invest.

The Company is a 'disclosing entity' for the purposes of the Corporations Act and, as such, is subject to regular reporting and disclosure obligations. Broadly, these obligations require the Company to:

Copies of documents lodged with ASIC in relation to the Company may be obtained from or inspected at an office of ASIC.
